An intercollegiate glee club contest will be held in Springfield Friday, February 24, in which representatives of the following institutions are to compete: Amherst, Bowdoin, Middlebury, Trinity, and Williams colleges, Clark university, University of Vermont, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mr. Richard Fear '31 and Mr. Fritz Tiller, of the German department, will accompany the Middlebury club as soloists.

The program which was presented today is as follows:

Weimar Folk Song - - - - Listz
A Banjo Song - - - - - Homer
Lo How A Rose Ere Blooming
Gamaliel Painter's Cane
Laudamus - - - - - Protheroe

Friday, the contest will consist of two parts. Each club is to sing its prize song at 4:30 p.m. Then, at 8:30 in the evening the concert will open with "The Star-Spangled Banner" which all the groups are to sing in unison. Two other numbers will be presented by all the participants. Finally, each individual club is to sing its choice number and its own college song. Middlebury representatives have chosen for these last two selections "Lo How A Rose Ere Blooming" by Praetorius and "Gamaliel Painter's Cane".

Wig And Pen Will Hold Formal At Inn

Bill Dehey's Merry Makers Will Play for Dramatic Society Saturday Night

The quota has been filled and final plans completed for the Wig and Pen formal to be held at the Inn Saturday. Dancing will start at 7:30 with Bill Dehey and his Merry Makers furnishing the music.

This formal is limited exclusively to members of Wig and Pen and about twenty other students who have taken an active part in dramatics. The dance is unusual in that it has a particular theme which makes it of a unique nature. A special method of decorating and lighting will be used to bring out this theme more effectively. Prof. V. Spencer Goodreds is directing the construction of the setting for the orchestra.

The programs are to be filled out by the committee in charge, every possible effort being made to follow the list of preferences handed in by those attending. The programs will be given out at the dance and will serve to identify each person.

Previously to this year Wig and Pen has held informal dinner dances at the Playhouse. It is hoped that this will be the first of a series of Wig and Pen annual formals.

The chaperons for the dance will be Prof. and Mrs. V. Spencer Goodreds and Dr. and Mrs. Douglas S. Beers.

Famous English Letters On Exhibition in Library

The original manuscripts of letters written by Mrs. Browning and Thomas Carlyle to John Ruskin are on exhibition now in the Abernethy wing of the library. Prof. H. Goddard Owen obtained the collection from the caretaker of Ruskin's house while on a sightseeing trip to that spot last year.

The letter written by Carlyle to Ruskin was found in a presentation copy to Ruskin of Carlyle's "French Revolution". It apparently had been used as a book mark and had been accidentally left in the volume. The letter of Ruskin criticizes the social conditions of the period, while Mrs. Browning's letter to Ruskin is particularly characteristic of her. It contains an accurate account of political conditions in France and also gives a description of Miss Mitford, then a prominent English novelist.

These manuscripts have been on exhibition in the Abernethy wing for several days and will remain there for a week or two longer. Members of the faculty and students are cordially invited to look at them.

Middlebury College Offers Scholarships

Vermont Youths Again Have Opportunity to Compete For Ten Awards of $1000

Middlebury College is again offering ten scholarships to boys residing in the state of Vermont. The awards consist of $1000 each and are given in amounts of $250 for each year of the four year course.

They are based on the general plan of the Rhodes scholarships, and are given to the men who show the greatest promise in qualities of manhood, force of character, and leadership; literary and scholastic ability and attainments; and physical vigor as shown by interest in outdoor sports and in other ways.

Selection is made on the basis of school records and personal references from the principals and other citizens of standing in the community where the boys live. It is required that all applicants, unless otherwise advised by the committee of selection, will come to Middlebury for a scholarship aptitude test, general intelligence examination, and personal interviews with the committee. This group consists of the president, two members of the board of trustees, the dean, and the director of admissions.

The scholarships are tenable for four consecutive years, subject to the maintenance of a good standing and a general college record which is satisfactory to the committee.

On account of increasing competition, it is necessary that men who wish to be considered should file their applications in the office of E. J. Wiley, director of admissions on or before April 15.

Women's Glee Club Will Present Friday Musicale

The women's glee club will present a musicale in Mead memorial chapel Friday, February 24 at 5:00 p. m. This will be under the direction of Miss Prudence H. Fish.

The program will be as follows: "Evening Hymn" from Brahms and "Legende" by Tschaikowsky, both to be sung by the entire group: "Cantibile" by Jongen, an organ solo by Eleanor Duke '35; and "Toscan Cypress", a composition by Bornschein, participated in by the entire organization.

This is the first appearance of the women's glee club in the regular weekly performances which have been offered during the winter months, although several of the personnel have given their services before this time.

Next Friday the college ensemble will be featured in a presentation of instrumental music.

These programs are in a series of regular Friday afternoon musicales being sponsored by the A Tempo club.

Women To Debate New Jersey Teams

To Meet William and Mary, New York State Teachers, Vermont Later in Spring

The women's debating team will leave on a seven day forensic tour of New Jersey Monday, February 27.

Janet E. Stainton '33, Lovina A. Foote '34, and Dorothy E. Canfield '35, will compose the team for the trip. They will be accompanied by Prof. Perley C. Perkins, coach, and Barbara L. Butterfield, manager.

The first encounter of the tour will be Tuesday, February 28, with the New Jersey college for women at New Brunswick, N. J., upon the question resolved, that the United State should recognize Soviet Russia. Middlebury will uphold the negative. Wednesday, March 1, they will meet Upsala college at East Orange, N. J., and will debate the question, resolved, that democracy is a failure, taking the negative side of the argument.

The third contest, Thursday, is with the New Jersey state teachers' college at Montclair, N. J., again arguing the democracy question. The last debate of the trip will be with New York university Friday, on the topic, resolved, that modern advertising is more detrimental than beneficial to the best interests of the American people, and Middlebury will debate the affirmative side. This is the only non-decision debate; all the others will be decided by the vote of three judges.

Further spring plans have been announced by the manager. The women's debating team from William and Mary college at Williamsburg, Va., will debate here March 17 on the question resolved, that the United States should cancel the debts owed her by her former allies. Middlebury will take the negative side.

The New York state teachers' college, Albany, N. Y., will meet the women's team here April 8, on the question of democracy, and Middlebury will again

Sorority Women Cast Indecisive Vote For Abolition Of Groups, Failing To Gain Necessary Two-Thirds Majority

Sixty-one Favor Retention, Seventy-two for Cessation

NUMERICAL BALLOT TAKEN BY COLLEGE

Petitions Being Presented To Administration This Week

An indecisive vote for the abolition of sororities at Middlebury College was cast by the sorority women last Saturday. Of the 133 ballots polled, seventy-two were in favor of abolition and sixty-one were for retention. Since eighty-nine was the number necessary for the required two-thirds majority, the result was not decisive.

A petition signed by ninety-six women, asking the administration to take a numercial vote, two-thirds being considered a majority, was granted by the authorities. Saturday, February 18, was set as the day for the balloting.

A modification was proposed by the administration that should the fraternity women vote for abolition a circular letter would be sent to all alumnae informing them of such action and asking them for reasons why this should not be considered final. This was accepted by the sorority women.

Saturday after chapel the fraternity women decided that the vote should be taken as planned, but sholud the result be indecisive a petition might be drawn up within one week, and that action concerning this document should be left to the administration. If such a petition is not presented by noon Saturday, February 25, the vote of February 18 will be considered final.

In accordance with this provision two petitions were drawn up. One was submitted to the administration this morning, and the other will be presented this week.

The first one reads, "In view of the

Professor Burrage Will Give Reading From Shaw

Prof. William S. Burrage will read "The Devil's Disciple" by George Bernard Shaw in the Abernethy wing of the library Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

"The Devil's Disciple", which is a study in temperament, was first produced in 1897 in New York by Richard Mansfield with great success. Critics agreed that the play was original to the verge of audacious eccentricity.

March 10 Mr. Lansing V. Hammond will read from Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire", and Professor Peach of Norwich university will give a reading March 17.

Members of the faculty and students are cordially invited to attend.

Fraternities Oppose Taxation Of Houses

Three Men are Sent From College to Legislative Hearing at Montpelier

Middlebury fraternitise were represented ysterday at a legislative hearing at Montpelier concerning the taxing of fraternity houses. The Middlebury representatives opposed the measure and also offered an amendment which would make the matter one of local option for the towns effected.

Prof. E. B. Cornwall, Ralph N. Huse '33, and Proctor M. Lovell '33 testified against the bill.

The measure under consideration was introduced last week by representative Burke of Burlington and would amend the tax laws of the State of Vermont of 1909 which provide for the exemption of fraternity houses from the taxable property list of towns. Last week a public hearing was held and representatives from the University of Vermont and Norwich university testified before the house taxation committee against the measure.

Present indications would point to the amendment proposed by the Middlebury delegation being attached to the bill. This would give the towns the right to tax if they so desired but the matter would have to be voted upon in town meeting. If the fraternity houses are taxed under the provisions of this law they would simply be added to the tax list of the town and be liable for the regular tax rate.

The bill is ready to be reported back to the house today by the committee

Senior Women Hear Miss Moody on Publishing Work

Miss Charlotte Moody spoke to the senior class of the women's college who were entertained by the local members of the American Association of university women last evening.

Miss Moody's subject was publishing, as she has experienced it in her work in New York and London. She discussed the attitudes of those who enter into the occupation.

She spoke of the dfficulties of reconciling the viewpoints of publisher and author, and the latter's prevalent suspicion that his manuscripts are not painstakingly read.

There are many people today, according to Miss Moody, who can turn out novels which are adroit and highly competent, but no good, because they write by embellishing a formula.

In conclusion, she characterized Arnold Bennett, one of the authors with whom she came in contact in England, whose writing was both a trade and an art.

Spanish Club Will Hold Annual Dance

Four Prizes to Be Awarded For Most Beautiful and Most Original Costumes

Plans are well under way for the Spanish carnival which is to be held Saturday, March 11, at the Middlebury inn. This is another of the exclusive formals of the year, only Spanish club members and their invited guests attending.

Prizes in keeping with the Spanish atmosphere will be awarded to the man and the woman having the most beautiful costumes, and also to the man and the woman having the most original ones. The names of those who will act as judges will be announced later.

The Black Panthers will furnish music for dancing, and programs with Spanish designs are being prepared by the committee.

Tickets at three dollars each may be obtained from any member of the committee, which consists of Dorothy B. Wheaton '33, chairman, Rollin E. Pratt '33, Robert L. Cushing '34, Elly Delfs '33, and Esther F. Damerell '35.

Previously the Spanish carnival has been open to all college students, but this year the committee in charge has decided to have the attendance limited, with only those who are members of the Spanish club and those whom they invite as guests eligible to attend.

FRATERNITY HOUSE TAXATION.

A measure to amend the existing tax laws of Vermont in order to allow towns to tax fraternity houses has been introduced to the Vermont legislature. We feel that this proposed law is unfair.

To begin with an increased tax would naturally mean an additional expense to fraternity members. This increase in assessments upon the individual members would result in one of three things, either the burden would be carried; the fraternities would make their property over to the colleges so that it would be tax exempt; or the fraternities would be forced out of existence. People who believe that this last would not happen are simply not conversant with the real situation. Middlebury students know that expenses are a vital problem. Fraternities are conducted on a business basis as far as expenditures are concerned and have interests beyond dancing and gin guzzling.

It would seem that the individuals who framed this proposed law do not understand all the factors involved. It might be assumed that an increased tax would affect only those living in fraternity houses but the truth is that the parents of the students meet the expenses. Thus all people in Vermont who send their sons and daughters to Vermont colleges would be affected.

Obviously this tax would be unfair to the fraternities. As already stated it would increase the expenses of the members, quite probably forcing the weaker fraternities out of existence. Whether or not fraternity life is essential to the acquiring of a college education is not the concern of this law. The fact remains that in all three of Vermont's institutions of higher learning membership in a fraternity is one of the most important single phases of college life for the average student. To make it impossible for the students in Vermont's colleges to have this privilege would be a rank injustice to the individual student and to the institutions as well.

Then again the imposing of this tax would be regarded as a violation of trust. The fraternity houses were built with the expectation that they would be tax exempt. In most cases a large part of the money for these houses was obtained from loans among the fraternity alumni or from mortgages. Plans have been carefully made for the meeting of these expenses and it is possible to do so without undue hardship. To add this unexpected tax would be to impose a burden for which plans have not been made. The expense would be tremendous and it would have to come directly from the parents of the students in college.

Furthermore the towns must remember that the fraternity houses buy the greater part of the provisions for their dining halls from the local merchants. If forced to give up serving meals this source of income for the townspeople would cease.

If the present law is left unamended we feel that it will be better for all concerned. The towns will not profit appreciably from this tax. The colleges, the fraternities, and the citizens of Vermont will visibly suffer.

Poking About

Back in the hundred and sixteenth year of the United States, 1892 to the vulgar mind, there was published at Middlebury a humorous paper called The Aphrodite. This modest four column, four page sheet purpoted to cover all items of college interest, as well as the more important town matters.

We have in our possession the second number of the first volume, (there was only one volume anyway as far as anyone can seem to remember) and in this copy the chief news item concerns the contemporary of The Aphrodite, the official college paper, a magazine it then was, The Undergraduate, afterwards the CAMPUS.

To begin over again, The Undergraduate had a business meeting and it was found that The Undergraduate showed a loss of two cents December 1, 1892, but the account books couldn't be closed because the printer hadn't been paid. The only thing to do was to re-elect the editor and business manager and give them another try. These gentlemen, Barlow and Seely of the class of 1894 had enemies so that after the election the association declared they were not members of the august body and chose a couple of freshmen to take their places, Blossom and Lamson by name.

Among the items of local interest appearing on the front page we note that "the college orchestra has failed to connect for the last two weeks". Also we learn "that next year there is going to be a Freshman class of fifty girls, the co-eds will room at Starr Hall and board at the college, the boys will room at Battell Hall and will have to go to bed at 10 p. m."

Probably the most interesting section of the paper from the standpoint of the present reader is the editorial column. The leading editorial is entitled "Water" and praises the Middlebury supply. (We were reminded of Middleburyitis in the spring.) The editorial begins with the statement that a plentiful supply of good water is beneficial to all animals and then considers the Middlebury situation.

In the second paragraph the author writes, "there is an abundance of it, there being two large cisterns and a well. Secondly, the cistern water is the purest to be found in the world, it being nothing less than rain water itself from the clean roof of the chapel, Moreover, the roof of the chapel must be clean for is it not washed by rain water, which no one can deny is the very purest of pure water?

After describing the taste of the cistern water the well water is considered. It seems that the purity of the well water is not so certain as that of the cistern. "To be sure it has the drainage, or rather a portion of the drainage of the graveyard, but those who are overanxious to run down the quality of this water forget that among the Chinese as it is today, and among the Romans, the decayed tissues of the left large toe of a dead woman united with one half the bulk of the ground bone of a dead man's right large toe, were the only known cure for consumption, diptheria, and Bright's disease."

The final matters of interest are the advertisements. Restaurants and clothing stores have a good share of the space, the rest being devoted to livery stable and bicycle ads. Evidently there was no riding rule at Middlebury in those days for the students are exhorted to buy a Columbia, "the best wheel in the world, prices from $35 to $150". Butterfield's livery stable has "elegant turnouts" while Solomon Lapine begs the students to purchase "harnesses, robes, and whips" and even offers to make harnesses to order.

Personally, we're rather glad that the CAMPUS hasn't The Aphrodite as a rival today. g. l.

Shreds and Patches

—by James S. Tyler

We open this week at a tremendous disadvantage. We're hurt, snivelling. The editorial lower lip still trembles, hours after the jarring shock. It seems all the dissatisfaction with our humble efforts has been crystallized in the single caustic suggestion that all the shreds and all the patches are much in need of mending. Gad - - that, to a Patch of the Virginia Patches, suh! Ah fine southe'n pride is stricken, suh! But the show must go on . . .

This year of our Lord 1933 should be commemorated in lasting bronze with a few wreaths and laurels on this campus. On account of this year marks the introduction of two new formal dances to our bright-lights social calendar. The Scullionettes (Ladies in Waiting to you) held their first ball Saturday evening last. Many happy returns! And in the offing we have the first Wig and Pen dance to reach the Inn. Here's a great chance to find whether the formal dinner jackets and evening wraps our local thespians sport behind the footlights are stage properties or not.

Before we get too far from this paragraph, we'd better name that unofficial band of brethen who patiently stand on one foot for a half-hour or so after daily chapel - - the sort of people who also serve, you know. "Gentlemen in waiting" would rather even things up, so we'll let it go at that.

Our Dartmouth informant of last week grew especially fluent when describing the wonders of the snow sculpture on that campus. Now we lift our head in pride at the local craftsmanship displayed at Hillerest. Choosing a medium that expresses their subject admirably, the ladies have fashioned what can hardly be mistaken for a human heart. Add a little flour and yeast and everybody would be happy.

While musing through the works of no less than Irving ("Rousseau and Romanticism") Babbitt, we stumbled on a couple of words that have an interesting local application. It is now possible to divide the men's college roughly into two classes. Friend, you're probably either a misogynist or a nympholeptic! Crawl back into your chair and we'll define. Misogyny is intense woman hatred. Nympholepsy is, lyrically speaking, "the pursuit of an impossible she." Now what do you think of that?

Blue and white tracksters, more blue than white, perhaps, came back Sunday from the first indoor meet at Boston, bearing weird tales of strange goings-on in the big city. Strangest of all, though, was the way one of the athletes got under way here at Middlebury when the team started. A total of misplaced articles, including an enormous check, vital athletic equipment and a uniform, kept the bus fuming for somewhat less than an hour.

While we quaked in our childish boots, all through high school at the thesis work that would fall on us in college, it seems a bit amusing at times. Frixample, a thesis has been assigned in one course on the fascinatin' title of "Social Life of Social Insects"! And we can think of only one thing!

Here we are with spring just around the corner, an early attack of spring fever in the air, and along comes another blizzard! But with more afternoons like last Sunday to look forward to, we should endure these classes and save these cuts. l. j. m.

Coeds get daringer and daringer (more and more daring sounds so trite) every day. Now it's nothing to see them sliding, sledding, coasting, sleighing, traversing - - choose your word - - down chapel hill. Nor is it confined to students, either. We're told that one individual, a perfect lady in other respects, demonstrated a musical scale that began in a major key and ended minor, in a snow drift. Or where a snow drift had been, anyway. l.j.m.

Man's Inner Nature Subject of Vespers

Self-expression is Essential According to Reverend J. G. Brown of Rutland

The Rev. J. Graydon Brown, pastor of the Congregational church at Rutland, took the question of the nature of man as the subject of his address at Sunday vespers.

"In the modern world," he said, "we are much like Columbus, who didn't know where he was going when he set out, nor where he was when he arrived, nor where he had been when he had returned. We have passed the northern star, and we are unable to agree on any new stars by which to chart our course.

"The guiding star of our fathers was the church, with its dogmatic and restrictive rules of conduct; the bible, which was accepted as a magical truth; and customs and conventions, which, although they may have been violated, were never questioned. But the church is not the authoritorian it once was, and today even a grandmother will risk that 'cough in a carload'. We are confused as to what is right and what is wrong. What can we teach our children?

"It is inevitable", said the Rev. Mr. Brown, "that people will find some new principle." As an example he cited our cult of self-expression. "If self-expression means following our whims and impulses, it is a way of drifting, and does not lead to a safe harbor. But if it means relying on the noblest and best that is in us, it is a tremendous help. What a man wants depends upon what he is."

Then, "What is man?," ask the speaker. "A brilliant woman states that man is the result of a fortuitous coming-together of atoms, that he is an animal and must remain so, finding his happiness through his animal nature. The New Testament says, 'Men are the sons of God; it doth not yet appear what we shall be, but we know we shall be like him'.

"We are innately monogamistic. Youth rebels against the conventions, but in our hearts the one thing we desire more than anything else is the love of a single person, marriage, children, and enduring devotion. This is not due to the influence of the church nor 'the dead hand of the past'. It is a constitutional part of us. Further, we have a deep desire for self-respect, and we must keep this intact. We cannot live to ourselves alone. We are dependent on those who dream, plan, and sacrifice themselves for us, and the greatest hour of our life is when we lay our garlands at the feet of these people.

"We believe instinctively that life is given us for a purpose, and we cannot fritter it away. We must ask ourselves at each opportunity 'What did you make of it?' Finally, we never find life except in loyalty to something beyond ourselves. Only when we become the slave of something big enough to master us do we discover ourselves free. This is what Jesus meant when he said, 'He who loseth his life shall find it'.

"Man is a spiritual being," concluded the Rev. Mr. Brown. "He is the child of God. Repeat that to yourself, 'I am the child of God'. Let no one rob you of that conviction. Cut every tie, and thus express yourself. Then you will find life."

Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, Professor at Harvard, to Speak in Chapel Sunday

Dr. Kirtley F. Mather, professor of geology at Harvard university, will be the speaker at the vesper service Sunday, February 26. He comes to Middlebury recommended by the general secretary of Y. M. C. A. of Brockton, Mass.

Dr. Mather was born in Chicago in 1888. He attended Denison university where he received his degree as doctor of science. He has spent his life teaching in various universities, including the University of Arkansas, Queen's university, and Denison. Since 1927 he has been professor of geology at Harvard. He is a member of several scientific and geological societies. Among the books which Dr. Mather has written are "Fauna of the Morrow Formation", "Old Mother Earth", "Science in Search of God", and "Sons of the Earth".

Miss Martin to Speak at Meeting of Spanish Club

The Spanish club will hold a regular monthly meeting in Hamlin hall at 8 o'clock Friday evening, February 24.

There will be a short business meeting following which, Miss Rose Martin plans to give an illustrated talk on the Spanish painter Velasquez.

Velasquez was a seventeenth century artist of highest rank. He spent his life in the service of the king, painting many of the royal portraits, and was held in such favor by Philip that the cross of Santiago was awarded to him, an honor never before bestowed upon any except the highest nobility. Not only was Velasquez the greatest of Spanish painters, but his impressionism has constituted him the foremost master in all schools of modern painting.

Prof. J. P. Davison Gives Talk on Protective Tariff

Prof. John P. Davison of the history department discussed the advantages of the tariff at an open meeting of the Liberal club last Wednesday evening in Warner hemicycle.

He stressed the necessity for protection of infant industries and the need of a protective tariff to safeguard essential industries in case of war, citing as an example the manufacture of dyes in the United States during the world war. He also maintained that free trade tends to reduce standards of living, since many of the people of foreign countries can work for cheap wages because of their low standards.

This talk was the first of a series to be sponsored by the Liberal club this year.

SPICY leaves of TURKISH tobacco are strung to dry and cure in the sun.

Well, that's something about cigarettes I never knew before

—the cigarette that's Milder
—the cigarette that Tastes Better

I'd never thought much about what's inside a Chesterfield cigarette. But I have just been reading something that made me think about it.

Just think of this, some of the tobacco in Chesterfield—the Turkish—comes from 4000 miles away! And before it is shipped every single leaf is packed by hand. All because Turkish tobacco is so small and delicate.

Of course I don't know much about making cigarettes, but I do know this—that Chesterfields are milder and have a very pleasing aroma and taste. They satisfy—and that's what counts with me!

Subject of Technocracy Argued by Men Debaters

A debate on the relative merits of technocracy and democracy was held in Old Chapel Monday afternoon.

The affirmative was represented by Charles A. Deedman Jr. '36, Earl M. Gove Jr. '36, and Lyman J. Morhouse '36, who maintained that democracy had failed. They upheld technocracy because it aims to give everyone an equivalent of $10,000 annually. They pointed out that a technocratic government would be in control of a dictator elected on merit, and that an energy system of exchange would replace the present price system.

John M. Avery Jr. '36, Douglas C. Rubb '36, and Archibald C. Tilford '36, who debated for the negative, disputed the accuracy of the technocratic figures and the justification of the conclusions which are based on them. They pointed out that the election of a leader would virtually be democracy and maintained that technocracy could not solve existing evils any more successfully than democracy has done.

The purpose of these talks is to give an insight into the theoretical and practical principles of photography.

German Club is Sponsor Of Wagner Celebration

The German club sponsored a special program commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Richard Wagner last Wednesday evening in Mead memorial chapel.

The theme was the works and influence of the great composer. The program opened with the prelude to the opera, "The Meistersinger". Mr. Lansing V. Hammond spoke about Wagner and his world of music. Mr. Fritz Tiller played a violin selection, "The Prize Song", from "The Meistersinger". This was followed by the prelude to the third act of the opera "Tristan and Isolde".

Dr. Werner Neuse, head of the German department spoke next on Wagner from a literary standpoint, considering his position in the great literature of the world. The song "Traeme" was sung by Miss Prudence Fish, followed by a violin selection, "Album Blatt" played by Mr. Tiller. The program was concluded by victrola recordings of Wagner's works.

ILLUSION:

Josie, the lovely trapeze artist, stands upon a small platform. At the will of the magician she leaps twenty feet into the air to reach her trapeze. She uses no ropes, no ladder! A phenomenal leap for a woman . . . or a man!

EXPLANATION:

Josie didn't jump . . . she was sprung! The twenty-foot leap is not dependent on Josie's ability, but on a powerful spring mechanism hidden beneath the stage which propels the artist upward through the air. The force is so violent that the lady wears a light steel jacket which protects her from injury as she starts her astonishing leap.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED ...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

Magic has its place...but not in cigarette advertising.

Consider the illusion that there is a mysterious way to give cigarettes a superior "flavor."

EXPLANATION: Cigarette flavor can be controlled by adding artificial flavorings. By blending. And by the quality of tobaccos used.

Cheap, raw tobaccos can be "built up" or "fortified" by the lavish use of artificial flavorings.

Such magic, however, seldom holds the audience. Your taste finally tells you the truth.

The cigarette flavor that never stales, never varies, never loses its fresh appeal, comes from mild, ripe, fragrant, more expensive tobaccos...blended to bring out the full, round flavor of each type of leaf. It's the quality of the tobacco that counts!

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Because Camel actually pays millions more every year for choice tobaccos, you find in Camels an appealing mildness, a better flavor.

And Camels taste cooler because the welded Humidor Pack of three-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane keeps them fresh.

Panther Courtmen Lose To Vermont

Green and Gold Hoopsters Defeat Beckmen 33-29 in Loosely Played Game

The Middlebury basketball team met its first conference defeat of the season Friday night at McCullough gymnasium, losing to the University of Vermont five by a 33-29 count.

The game was keenly contested throughout with the lead changing hands many times. Both teams displayed a well organized passing attack but overanxiety caused much fumbling, especially by the Panthers. The action was considerably slowed up by very close officiating.

The Vermont quintet displayed a clever cross-over play which the Midd defense had trouble breaking up. This play, coupled with a steady defense which refused to be drawn out of position, provided the slight superiority which made it possible for the Green and Gold to eke out a slender victory. Clonan outjumped Morgan and the Panther forwards succeeded in receiving the tap consistently but very few scoring plays resulted.

The Beckmen succeeded in securing the opening tap and, after several moments of cautious but alert passing, Corliss took a pass in the corner, dribbled under the basket, and opened the scoring with an accurate step-shot. He followed this a moment later with a successful foul toss to give the Panthers a 3-0 lead. Taking advantage of several foul chances the visiting five evened the score at four all only to fall behind as Corliss succeeded in sinking a floor goal and foul shot and Sweet made good a free toss.

With the period almost half over the Catamount attack suddenly burst forth with a new brilliance and, aided by some poor ball handling by the home team, ran up a 15 to 10 lead. The Blue and White defense then stiffened and halted the spurt of the visitors. The Panther quintet immediately began a slow but determined rally and gradually closed the gap between the two teams. With the score tied at seventeen all and only a few seconds of the period left, Leete swished the ball through the netting and Clonan made good a free toss to give Middlebury a 20-17 lead at half time.

The Vermont aggregation appeared to have new inspiration and zest after the rest period. Palmer, who replaced Sowka, became the spark plug of the offense, and under his leadership the Green and Gold slowly forged ahead. Meanwhile the Blue and White seemed to have lost its edge. The passing was slipshod, the shooting inaccurate, and the game slipped out of their grasp. With the score 33 to 24 in favor of the Catamounts and only about three minutes of playing time remaining, the Black Panther again came to life and uncorked a rally which lessened the gap between the teams, but just fell short of evening the count.

Both quintets were well balanced and there were no outstanding individual stars. Capt. Corliss was the most consistent of the Midd players and led his teammates in scoring with eight points. Taft, Morgan, and Palmer each garnered eight points for the visiting five.

By virtue of this victory the University of Vermont gains undisputed lead of the conference with three victories and a single defeat.

Kappa Delta Rho Leads in Trophy of Trophies Battle

As a result of winning the hockey championship, KDR forged to the front in the race for intramural athletic supremacy, with a total of 610 points. At the end of the year a trophy is awarded to the fraternity with the highest point total.

DKE is right at their heels with 570 credits, while ASP, and DU have garnered 486.3 points each, to tie for third place. The rest of the field is fairly well bunchde, and only CP is in a position to threaten the leaders.

KDR owes its position to the fact it has scored heavily in basketball, hockey, and winter sports. The Dekes have registered points in only two events, touch football, and basketball, but the fact that they were champions in each of these, puts them close to the top.

ASP has been fairly consistent, scoring in all competition to date, but has no first place to its credit. DU likewise has managed to break into the scoring column in all of the events, but has not taken any firsts and only one second.

Panther Trackmen Compete At Boston

Roberts, Prochazka, Cady and Hunter Run Well; Relay Team Nosed Out

A band of thirteen Middlebury trackmen represented the Blue and White at the second annual University Club games held in the Boston Garden last Saturday night, and gave a creditable account of themselves, although they failed to score any points.

In the individual events, Roberts came the closest to breaking into a medal-winning place. Competing in the 45 yard hurdles, he won his trial heat with ease, and then had the misfortune to meet McLaughlin of Bowdoin, record-holder in the event, in the semi-finals. Only the winners and the fastest second man in the semi-finals were taken into the four-man final, but Roberts' time in taking second to McLaughlin was evidently not fast enough to make him eligible.

In the 50 yard dash Prochazka took second in his trial to Means of Maine, defending champion, but was eliminated in the semi-final heat, won by Miller of Williams, who also captured the finals in record-equalling time. Cady also qualified for the semi-finals with a third in his trial heat, but met his elimination there.

Hunter, state champion in the half-mile ran a fine race in his specialty, but was not quite good enough to place. The race was divided into sections because of the size of the entry, and was finally decided by comparative times. Hunter took third place in his section, doing 2:08, but missed a third in the final reckoning by three seconds.

The Panther mile relay team, made up of Montgomery, Deemer, Prochazka, and Boehm, met with a bit of bad luck in their event. Placed in a group with Rhode Island State and Boston university, the quartet took second to Rhode Island. They might well have won but for the fact that Boehm, running last, was crowded off the track, and put out of the running for first place. Montgomery led off for Midd with a sparkling quarter, and handed Deemer the baton in first place, about three yards ahead of Rhode Island. Deemer held the lead for two laps, but on his last circuit was passed. Prochazka then took the stick about five yards to the bad, and made up some ground, giving Boehm the baton a stride behind the leaders. Immediately after a fast exchange, Boehm recaptured the lead, and held it for two laps. On the third lap the Rhode Island anchor man drew up behind his shoulder, and, while desperately attempting to take the lead from him, elbowed him off the inside of the boards.

Considering the team's lack of indoor experience and the strangeness of the conditions, their performance was far from discouraging. The meet served the purpose of adding interest in the training for the impending outdoor campaign, which should see Middlebury again winning the state title.

Ski Team Victorious In St. Michael's Meet

Panthers Score 22½ Points To Win Ellsworth Trophy Over Four Rival Colleges

The Middlebury ski team won the beautiful Ellsworth Trophy at the Collegiate Ski meet held at St. Michael's college last Saturday. Included in the list of entrants were representatives from Dartmouth, Vermont, Middlebury, Norwich, St. Michael's and Green Mt. Jr. College.

The news of a new jump seemed to be a fine drawing card for long before the scheduled time of the first event, a crowd of several hundred winter sports enthusiasts had gathered at Winooski park.

Although there was a lack of snow on the surrounding hills, the unemployed of Winooski succeeded in drawing snow to the landing of the jump so that at the scheduled time the jump was in fine condition. The crowd was rewarded with a variety of thrills as the more experienced jumpers hurled themselves through space to land gracefully some seventy-five or eighty feet below on the smooth runway. Several of the less skilled lost their balance in mid-air and fell headlong, sliding to the bottom of the landing hill in a tanglement of harness and splintered skiis.

The lack of good running snow made the other events rather difficult to manage. However, as the bare ground was an equal impediment to all contestants the following events were run as scheduled: cross country, slalom, down hill race, and snowshoe cross country.

At 7:00 p. m. St. Michael's college sponsored a banquet for the competing teams. Father Lyon thanked the teams for their fine support and presented the Ellsworth Trophy to the winning team, Middlebury college. The St. Michael's men then cheered each team individually.

The total point score of the individual teams was as follows: Middlebury 22.5; Norwich 11.5; Dartmouth 9; St. Michael's 5; Vermont 2.

Results of the events:

Cross country: won by Meacham, Middlebury; second, Springstead, Middlebury; third, Suitor, Vermont.

Snowshoe cross country: won by Kelley, Middlebury; second, Champheau, St. Michael's; third, Morin, St. Michael's.

Ski jump: won by McNamera, Norwich; second, Stevens, Dartmouth; third, Nickelson, Norwich.

Down hill race: won by Pierce, Middlebury; second, Nickelson, Norwich; third, Meacham, Middlebury.

Slalom: won by Dwyer, Middlebury and Stevens, Dartmouth in a tie for first place; second, tie, McCray, Dartmouth and Nickelson, Norwich; third Fulton, Dartmouth.

Intramural Hockey

DU 4 - ASP 2

In the play-off for third position, DU flashed a final period rally that carried them to a 4-2 win over ASP, last Wednesday.

The game saw both teams doing considerable bumping, and at no time was the outcome apparent. The flashy work of Brooks, who registered three goals, was sufficient to put his team in front.

Stevenson of the Alpha Sigs drew first blood, but Brooks evened the count with a long shot before the period was over. In the next period the losers again took the lead and held it until the final stanza, when two goals by Brooks put the game out of their reach.

Stevenson, and Kennedy featured for ASP.

KDR 4 - CP 2

KDR clinched the intramural hockey championship last Wednesday night with a 3-1 victory over CP.

Poor ice handicapped both teams, and made combination play almost impossible, yet the game was interesting because so much was at stake that neither outfit let up for a single minute.

KDR took the lead in the first period, and was never headed, although CP made several serious bids to overhaul them.

Hall, Miner, and Locke scored for the winners, and Reid tallied for Chi

Blue and White to Meet Conference Rivals in Three Games This Week

The Panther hoop squad will wind up the season with three games during the coming week, meeting Norwich tonight, St. Michael's Saturday, and Vermont next Tuesday.

Every one of these contests will have an important bearing in deciding the Conference championship, and to assure themselves of first place, regardless of what the other state teams may do, Middlebury must take all three contests.

Tonight the Blue and White should not experience much trouble in hurdling Norwich, as the cadets do not seem to possess the class to spring an upset. Since their last appearance against Middlebury, they have lost to Vermont, St. Michael's, and the Coast Guard five. While showing improvement over their early season form, Coach Hartford's men have not shown that they are dangerous.

The game with St. Michael's may prove to be a different matter for although the Beckmen took them into camp with ease in their last encounter, they may find the Mikemen rather troublesome on their home floor. After fightnig Vermont to a standstill in two previous games, it was expected that they would give the Panthers a merry tussle, but the contest proved to be a runaway for the latter. Everything Middlebury tried was good, and no matter how hard the visitors tried, they could not click. As a result they are out to show their followers that if they are better than they appeared to be in that game. They realize that if they win Saturday, and Midd should upset U. V. M. they will share in a triple tie for first place.

In recent games the Purple has lost to Rhode Island State, Northeastern, and Boston university, while defeating Norwich. They easily won from Lowell Textile, which pressed the Blue to the limit. All in all the two teams should wage a much closer battle this time than in their last meeting, although Middlebury ought to be favored.

Next Tuesday night, the home team will play their final game of the season, opposing their traditional rivals, U. V. M. at Burlington. While the local team and St. Mikes are waging battle, Vermont will be entertaining Union, in a game that has no especial importance attached to it. Should Middlebury win over Norwich, and St. Michael's they will have arranged the setting for a grand climax. A game between Middlebury and Vermont with the championship at stake should arouse plenty of enthusiasm. The Green and Gold sprang a surprise when the humbled the Beckmen on their home floor, and threw the standing into a complicated mixup.

Vermont now enjoys the point of vantage in the Conference standing, as they have only Norwich and Middlebury to conquer, and the former should not give the Green and Gold too much trouble. The fact that the Panthers must play the final game away from home puts them at a disadvantage, although it is entirely possible that they may not have a chance for undisputed claim on first place by the time they go to Burlington. Before then th eymust elminate St. Michael's to stay in the hunt.

Hockey Team Will Play At Dartmouth

Hamilton and Colgate to Be Opponents Saturday and Monday in Final Matches

Hindered by poor weather, the hockey team will attempt to get under way again this week, with the Dartmouth game scheduled for this afternoon, and contests with Hamilton and Colgate, scheduled for Saturday, and Monday respectively.

In their last start, Dartmouth carried Harvard two over time periods before losing their second game to the Crimson. This makes the sixth consecutive loss suffered by the big Green, yet they have a very strong team, and it does not look as though Middlebury packed the power to stop them.

Colgate lost to the Blue sextet here a few weeks ago, in one of the finest games seen here. Trailing 3-2 going into the last period, Middlebury evened the count about half way through the heat, and then forged to the front. A second encounter between these two teams should furnish another sixty minutes of thrilling hockey.

Hamilton defeated the strong Union ice team, but lost to Mass. State, and Army. The Bay Staters also defeated Midd earlier in the season, but since that time the home team has come along at a fast clip, and could probably reverse the decision were they to meet now.

If the game with Dartmouth is not postponed, the Blue will travel to Hanover with very little practice under their belt, as the ice has been in poor condition all week. However, the Green also depends on natural ice, and they too have probably suffered from lack of practice, although the encounter with Harvard last Saturday showed they were in pretty good condition.

Rule Regarding Chaperons Is Passed by Student Life

A new rule has been passed by the student life committee to the effect that at least one mraried couple must be on the list of chaperons at college dances.

This ruling is in accord with a measure of long standing of the student government association which states that approved chaperons are faculty members and their wives and trustees and their wives. The ruling was passed by the student life committee as an interpretation of the regulation of the student government association.

The following statement was given to the CAMPUS by the student life committee:

"According to the Constitution of the StSudent Government association approved chaperons are 'members of the faculty and their wives, members of the board of trustees and their wives - - -'. The recent ruling to the student life committee tha tat least one married couple should be on the list of chaperons at college dances was made in an endeavor to interpret that regulation."

The committee wishes it understood that this rule does not forbid unmarried persons being on the list of chaperons. However, at least one married couple must be included from the faculty.

TAX ON FRATERNITY HOUSES IS OPPOSED

and will then go to the senate. What the fate of the bill will be in the upper house is problematical.

Several weeks ago the city of Burlington held a vote upon the advisability of taxing fraternity houses. The interfraternity council at the University of Vermont did everything possible to oppose holding the vote. Less than ten per cent of the eligible voters in Burlington cast their ballots, although the count was overwhelmingly in favor of the tax measure. Acting upon the result of this vote representative Burke of Burlington introduced the bill under consideration.

At a hearing yesterday the Middlebury delegates testified that the college now pays over $14,000 in taxes to several towns in the state. Only the college campus proper and the residence of the president is tax exempt. It was pointed out that the imposition of this tax would be likely to result in some of the fraternities going out of existence. Also it would quite probably affect the building plans of one fraternity which has the erection of a new house under consideration for this spring.

The third week in April the team will go to Burlington to debate with the University of Vermont the negative side of the question resolved, that the Japanese action in Manchuria is justifiable.

Dr. Granger Lectures on Scientific Explorations

Dr. Walter Granger, divisional curator of the American Museum of Natural History, who was second in command of the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition into Central Asia, delivered an illustrated lecture on "Gobi Desert Trails" at the Middlebury town hall Thursday night. Three reels of motion pcitures and various lantern slides supplemented the talk.

Dr. Granger has made five trips to the Gobi desert since 1921. These expeditions have been organized and sent out by the American Museum of Natural History with outside financial help. His research covered fields of paleontology, botony, zoology, and topography with special interest in paleontological discoveries. Lantern slides and movies of fossils before and after entire excavation were shown as Dr. Granger explained how the remains were treated with shellac, bound with cloths dipped in starch paste, and finally shipped in camels' hair packing to the United States.

Among the most important findings of the party were the dinosaur eggs which have gained such wide repute. Illustrations of the native Mongols and their friendly attitude toward American research parties were included in the reels.

MISS SANDS OFFERS PROGRAM THURSDAY

The impersonation of Pauline Lord as Lady Macbeth, and of Ethel Barrymore, Haidee Wright, and Mae West, as they might portray the sleep walking scene from the Shakespearian play, will form the concluding numbers of the program.

Miss Sands appeared in Middlebury ten years ago with the drama class of Radcliffe college. In the play given by that group, she took the leading feminine role.

In recent appearances at the Booth theatre in New York city, the actress has been presenting the same program that she will offer at Middlebury.

The entertainment will not take place in Mead chapel as advertised, but in the gymnasium, in order to provide for more adequate stage facilities.

Single admissions and season ticket reservations may be procured at Frost's pharmacy.
